

CISO Advisory

You want to protect your organization from cyber security threats. Sometimes that means looking externally for further cyber skills and advice.

The Need

Being an organization's information security lead is a very difficult job. The cyber threat landscape and regulatory demands are ever-changing. Furthermore, there is a shortage of cyber security talent. Every organization can benefit from advisory assistance to help build and implement a strong security framework.

How We Help

We offer cyber security advisory support for Chief Information Security Officers (CISOs) and, for organizations without one, we advise executives tasked with securing the company. We can provide strategic guidance, give tactical project support, offer input on budgeting, and present security strategies to your board. We customize our support to meet your needs.

Why Us

Verified Professionals

Our professionals bring experience in risk, compliance, technology, law, government, business, academia, law enforcement, the military, computer science, and digital forensics. We are ISO 27001 certified across multiple service lines and hold Cyber Essentials certification.

Efficient Communicators

We prioritize clear, objective communication. We make sure that you understand your current state and what we intend to do to improve it. We set realistic expectations, provide ongoing updates, help you clearly understand our findings, and determine the best way to communicate with key stakeholders, including executives, law enforcement, regulators, and the board.
