

Incident Response Readiness Assessment

In the midst of a cyber attack, you need to know what to do. Rapid detection and meaningful response is critical. We'll evaluate your organization's cyber security response capabilities.

The Need

Effectively coordinating communication, tasks and resources under the intense pressure of a cyber attack demands vigilance and solid planning. Every moment you wait for important decisions or information is a delay in containment and recovery, while the event continues to chip away at your brand integrity.

How We Help

Our assessment takes a dynamic and consultative approach. We know what being prepared looks like, and we can evaluate your current cyber incident response plan, research your environment, evaluate your response capabilities, and identify gaps. This thorough review will help to identify blind spots and provide tactical and strategic recommendations that help your organization respond to a cyber event with confidence.

Why Us

Go-To First Responders

Over the last decade, we've tackled ninety percent of the highest-profile breaches.<sup>1</sup> Our years of experience inform our work and assist in preparing your organization to contain potential crises.

Efficient Communicators

One of the keys to a successful breach response is communication. And it should take place before a breach, not after. We'll help you communicate with poise — internally to senior leaders, technical staff and members of the board, and externally to customers, outside counsel, regulators and law enforcement.
