

Stroz Friedberg Incident Response

Our incident response teams are made up of integrated specialists who solve problems you know you have. And, problems you don't.

▶ The Need

Most organizations lack the processes and technology to address a breach independently. Finding, containing, and mitigating an incident is only the beginning to effective breach response. Responders need to be well-versed in litigation, and able to mitigate the risk and protect the integrity of the forensic investigation.

▶ How We Help

We'll give you a quick-acting team of incident responders, forensic examiners, former regulators, and law enforcement officials. The result will be less damage, and ultimately less reputational and financial fallout. Your breach response team will undertake rapid remote support, then work onsite to understand what happened. They will contain the incident while preserving evidence. And, confidently communicate with your stakeholders.

We're ready to go now.

▶ Why Us

Go-To Firm For Response

Every minute a data breach goes uncontained, it can cost potentially millions. We have become the go-to firm for organizations and their law firms in addressing the highest profile breaches in recent years.<sup>1</sup>

Litigation-Aware & Steadfast

We have your back from day one. Period. We won't discuss your breach publicly to promote our firm. We maintain strict privilege and proper information custody. With former federal prosecutors and investigators by your side, your in-house and outside counsel get the specialist guidance to make difficult and sensitive legal calls with confidence.
